

Undergraduate Certificate in North American Studies

The Undergraduate Certificate in North American Studies educates students to recognize areas of current and future cooperation among the countries of North America in key areas such as immigration, security, and development. Participants receive a solid introduction to important topics in the relationship among Mexico, the United States, and Canada, and through their specialization in immigration, security, or North American developmental issues. Participants will also gain insights into strategies which do or could foster cooperation in the region. Nine hours are required for completion of the certificate.
